Statement of Intent

The Oxford Diocesan Bucks Schools Trust (ODBST) expects its schools to develop a curriculum underpinned by the National Curriculum, enhancing this with opportunities to make learning exciting and in a meaningful context for children both in and outside the classroom. Where commonality exists between subjects and aspects, learning may be linked and where this is not achievable, subjects may be taught discretely.

ODBST places a strong emphasis on the development of the basic skills necessary for children to develop into confident independent learners and successful adults. This will help to develop a strong sense of moral purpose in addition to a respect and understanding of people who have different characteristics to themselves, whether that be faith, age, disability, gender, race or sexuality. A rigorous, well planned curriculum, delivered in an ethos of care, love and support will enable our pupils to be well rounded, show empathy and have a thirst for learning and respect for all around them.

Religious Education is delivered through the Locally Agreed Syllabus.

2. Introduction

In September 2014, the Primary National Curriculum underwent some significant changes. This provided our schools with an excellent opportunity to review and refresh their curricular offerings to the children to ensure that not only are the core skills and knowledge in English, Maths and Science covered, but also that the changes to other curriculum areas are reflected in a broad and balanced approach to teaching the skills in the humanities, the arts and in physical and technological skills. More recently, curriculum planning has been challenged by the National pandemic and the amount of schooling that our pupils have either missed or received in a way that is not necessarily the way schools would normally provide learning. As a result, schools should consider taking a new look at curriculum and ensuring that it is fit for purpose as we move forward and out of the pandemic and respond more accurately to the needs of our pupils today.

This statement is not a statement of prescribed curriculum design or the teaching style to be used; that is the devolved responsibility of the local governing body. It is, however, a reminder of the statutory and advisory content of the curriculum decisions devolved to LGBs and the intention of trustees in so doing. All school curriculum are subject to final approval by the Director of Education.

3. Objectives

This statement aims to:

- offer a curriculum which is balanced and broadly based;

ODBST Statutory Curriculum Policy

The Oxford Diocesan Bucks Schools Trust (ODBST) promotes and encourages its member schools through its Local Governing Bodies (LGB) to provide compelling learning environments at the heart of all its learning communities. They promote care and respect and expect high standards in all aspects of school life. Each school's curriculum will offer a spiritual and moral basis for the development of each pupil's potential and a sure foundation for personal and social values based on the individual. It will provide a distinctive language for understanding life in all its fullness and interpreting human experience.

Our aim is to meet the needs of children and young people in our schools preparing them for the next phase in their education as part of becoming valuable and productive members of society and prepare them for their future life in the 21st century. Providing an education which

... stretches the mind, strengthens the body, enriches the imagination, nourishes the spirit, encourages the will to do good and opens the heart to others

The Way Ahead 2012

The trustees have devolved responsibility to individual LGBs to design and agree a curriculum which matches the distinct needs of the schools within ODBST. In so doing, trustees expect LGBs to have regard to the National Curriculum documents¹ and other curriculum guidance² issued by the Department for Education. Trustees will, from time to time, issue guidance on a range of curriculum areas which it would expect its schools to follow when setting policy. The Director of Education will quality assure the curriculum for each school and determine modifications as and when required.

The educational vision and curriculum design for ODBST recognises that:

- For children starting in an ODBST school today, the world of 2030 when they leave primary education, will be very different to the world of today;
- the pace of change is increasing, hence the importance for flexibility;
- young people have increasingly greater access to information and learning material independent of school;
- each school is a unique place with local needs and differences to which a centralised curriculum policy would be ill- matched to those differences;
- the current curriculum defined in subject terms is not always well suited to equipping every young person with the knowledge, skills and understanding they will need for a fulfilling adult life;
- all children, even those who are still very young, have now lived through a national pandemic and for many, their early childhood and school experiences have not been the same as for children previously;
- curriculum delivery may involve a greater use of adults other than teachers. This could include support staff, graduates, artists, sports people and people from industry and business.

ODBST's curriculum statement is based on the following aims, to:

Curriculum

1. Curriculum Intent

1.1 The curriculum should inspire and challenge all learners and prepare them for the future. The Trust's aim is to develop a coherent curriculum that builds on pupils' experiences in earlier phases and help all pupils to become successful learners, confident individuals and responsible citizens.

1.2 Specifically, the curriculum should help young people to:

- achieve high standards and make good/excellent progress;
- enable those not achieving age-related expectations to narrow the gap and catch up with their peers;
- have and be able to use high quality personal, learning and thinking skills and become independent learners;
- have and be able to use high quality literacy, numeracy and IT skills;
- be challenged and stretched to achieve their potential;
- respect and understand their physical, emotional and moral development;
- value their learning outside of the curriculum and relate it to the taught curriculum.

2. The curriculum Impact

2.1 Schools, as part of ODBST, will design curricula which will:

- fulfil statutory requirements;
- enable pupils to fulfil their potential;
- meet the needs of all pupils and groups of all abilities in our schools;

3. Roles and responsibilities

3.1 On behalf of the Trustees of ODBST, each school and its LGB will ensure that:

- all statutory elements of the curriculum, and those subjects which the LGB chooses to offer, have aims and objectives which reflect the aims of the Trust and indicate how the needs of groups of pupils will be met. This will include how the subject will be taught and assessed;
- the amount of time provided for teaching the curriculum is adequate and is reviewed by the governors, and the Director of Education, annually;
- where appropriate, the individual needs of some pupils are met by permanent or temporary disapplication from the national curriculum;
- the procedures for assessment meet all statutory requirements and pupils and their parents/carers receive information to show how much progress the pupils are making and what is required to help them improve;
- the LGB is fully involved in decision making processes that relate to the breadth and balance of the curriculum;
- the LGB is involved with the leadership team in each school in setting targets with the Trust in order to make informed evaluations on the overall effectiveness of the school and its provision.

- provide detailed and up-to-date schemes of learning to support the delivery of subjects and aspects of learning within their school which are monitored and reviewed on a regular basis;
- such schemes of learning will be designed using a school standard format and will contain curriculum detail on: context, expectations, key skills, learning objectives, learning outcomes, learning activities, differentiation and resources;
- schemes of learning encourage progression at least in line with national standards and that progression is mapped out;
- schemes of learning build on component skills so that pupils learn in a progressive manner, developing knowledge already acquired so that new knowledge is relevant, timely and appropriate;
- levels of attainment and rates of progress are regularly discussed with leaders, managers, Trustees and governors on a regular basis and swift actions are taken where necessary to improve these;
- long term planning is in place for all subjects and aspects of learning;
- there is consistency in terms of curriculum delivery across each member school. Schemes of learning should be in place and be used by all staff delivering a particular subject or phase of learning;
- assessment is appropriate to the subject and the pupils following particular areas of learning. There should be consistency of approach towards assessment which will be recorded using Bromcom;
- schools share best practice with other colleagues in terms of curriculum design and delivery;

- be informed about the curriculum on offer through newsletters and details on the school's website.

4. Monitoring, evaluation and review

4.1 The LGB will receive regular reports from the Headteacher on:

- the termly outcomes in the core subjects⁴ compared with national and local benchmarks for each year group focused on the progress current pupils are making;
